

Summary of Legislative Action
H.B. 2295 McClendon (Hegar)

House Bill 2295 contained the Sunset Commission's recommendations on the Texas Residential Construction Commission, as well as additional statutory modifications made by the Legislature. However, the Legislature did not pass H.B. 2295, and the Commission was not continued in separate legislation. According to the Texas Residential Construction Commission Act, and pending further legislation, the Commission will be abolished and the Act will expire on September 1, 2009. At that time, according to the Sunset Act, the Commission may continue in existence until September 1, 2010, to wind down its activities.
